

Mercedes Owners Want the Best

People purchase a Mercedes Benz because they are looking for performance, quality, and maybe just a little attention. Since Mercedes Benz owners are typically quite proud of their cars, they also want to keep them looking their very best, inside and out.

Gerald Debery is an auto detailer at a very successful U.S. Mercedes Benz dealership. "A common problem we encounter is smoke odors inside the car," he says. "The owner does not want the odor masked or covered up, but removed. That's why we use an ozone machine."

Debery uses an "ozone kit" specially developed for auto detailers by U.S. Products. The system is similar to the ozone systems used for years to eliminate odors in facilities, especially after fires.

"After about an hour, the odor is completely gone," says Debery. "In fact, we are so sure it is permanently gone, we will detail the car again for free if it returns."
